BIOGRAPHY

Dr. Ahmad Maulidizen is an esteemed academic at Department of Management, Universitas Dian Nusantara, Indonesia whose scholarly endeavors primarily encompass Islamic business and finance, Islamic human resource management, Islamic entrepreneurship, and halal supply chain management. He boasts an extensive publication portfolio, comprising over 145 articles and accumulating more than 1127 citations, evidenced by a Google Scholar h-index of 18, Scopus h-index 2, and Sinta Score Overall 2,210. Through these contributions, he has substantially advanced discourse in Islamic economic thought both within Indonesia and globally. His scholarly eminence is further underscored by his active engagement as a reviewer for numerous prestigious Scopus-indexed international journals and as the author of seminal scholarly works that synthesize theoretical frameworks with practical applications in Islamic economics and business ethics. Beyond his research and publications, Ahmad Maulidizen has represented his institution and nation as an invited speaker at diverse national and international fora, including conferences held in Turkey, Uzbekistan, Malaysia, and Thailand. In these venues, he has disseminated expertise on the evolution of Islamic economics, ethical financial practices, and sustainable entrepreneurial models. This sustained commitment to rigorous research, prolific publication, and scholarly dissemination attests to his dedication to enriching the global dialogue on Islamic economic and business paradigms through pedagogical initiatives, collaborative ventures, and innovative approaches.
